

RUDOLPH SPRECKELS STOPS OVER IN OGDEN

On his return trip from his home at New York to San Francisco yesterday, Rudolph Spreckels stopped over to see Charles H. Marshall of Ogden who, a few years ago, was associated with Mr. Spreckels in the San Francisco graft prosecutions—as well as in the reorganization of the Oakland water systems.

Mr. Spreckels declared his amazement at the obvious enlarged development of Ogden and expressed an intense interest in the new policy of the city regarding municipal ownership or control of public utilities. He was a loyal supporter of Mr. Marshall when the latter began his seemingly unsurmountable task of uncovering Patrick Calhoun's shortage of over one million dollars while president of the United Railroad of San Francisco; the Baker delinquency of $504,000 from the Crocker National bank of San Francisco, and the correlated embezzlements of these funds by a San Francisco bucket-shop.

For his activities Mr. Marshall was twice murderously attacked by thugs of the clique that faced inevitable criminal exposure and imprisonment.

"END OF THE ROAD" IS FRANK PICTURE

Vivid Portrayal of Modern Social Evils Given by Orpheum Film.

Driving home with startling frankness, facts dealing with the evils of the modern social system, "The End of the Road" opened a three-days' engagement at the Orpheum theatre last night. Three crowded houses greeted the initial screening of this picture. Matinees will be held today and tomorrow.

The story parallels the lives of two girls, one warned by her parents against the perils of life and the other who is left by her mother to gain her information where she may. The principal male role is played by Richard Bennett, a heart-throb if ever there was one. Mr. Bennett's sincerity in this class of work is past the stage of criticism. Mr. Bennett's co-star is Claire Adams, acclaimed the most beautiful woman on the screen. There is merit to the claim and additionally, Miss Adams has talent.

The picture is outspoken, in that it freely discusses a subject that the world has avoided in the past, but it serves its object in that it is calculated to form, inform and reform young and old Americans. It is of particular interest to young women and mothers and men will do well to see "The End of the Road" if only to gain a lesson in chivalry. It will make all think, and thinking never hurt any one.

By request of the owners of the film children under fourteen will not be admitted unless accompanied by their parents. Manager J. F. Goss announces—Adv.

GREY'S DUANE WILLIAM FARNUM

A large audience saw the first showing of William Farnum in "The Last of the Duanes" at the Ogden theatre yesterday. This production, with the famous William Fox star, is a picture of the same name with scenes laid in Texas in the days of border outlaws. Mr. Farnum never has been seen to better advantage in a western character role than in his portrayal of Buck Duane, son of a feudist. This young Texas refuses to fight until forced to kill a man in self-defense. He then is an outlaw until, through the love of a girl, he receives a pardon on condition that he help clean up a leading band of cattle thieves and bandits. He does so and earns both the pardon and this girl.

Wright's A GOOD PLACE TO TRADE Derryvale Linens

There is still one sure way in which to tell pure Irish linen. That is to ask for "Derryvale." In these days of clever imitations and mercerized cottons, very few can tell the difference between real linen and the imitation—until after it is washed. Derryvale linens come to us from Ireland and from one of the oldest companies in the world—a company that actually raises its own flax, weaves its own linens. If you are giving linens for Christmas, the recipient will know of a surety that the gift is of pure linen if it bears the stamp of Derryvale, for no cloth can bear that name that is not all pure Irish linen. Sold only at this store.

Here's News of a Hundred Bargains

Come to Toyland

Your kiddies are missing the best show of the year, if you don't bring them to Toyland. Even a circus parade could not thrill the little tots as will this wonderful floor of toys.

Let them see the big oil paintings of their friends from Wonderland. Let them see the maze of toys. And just between ourselves, you'll like it yourself. Come in and bring the kiddies.

Wright's A GOOD PLACE TO TRADE

All Suits at Half

Take our word for it and buy a suit now for next spring. The styles will still be good, and with this offer of any suit in the house for half price, the price will be about one-fourth of the prices that will prevail in the spring. There's a fine assortment—and at any price you want to pay.

New Dresses of Serge $15

Twenty-five more Serge Dresses are here—Dresses that were intended to sell at a higher price. But this $15 Dress Department has met with such a ready welcome that we have decided to place the new Dresses on sale at that price.

Those of you who know something of the present price of serge by the yard, can appreciate what astounding values these are. Dresses that in the usual way of selling would cost from $20 to $25. Many of them are in the corner window, and many others on the second floor. At least come in for a look.
